D&S is pleased to announce that Terri Adler, chair of the Real Estate Department, will be speaking at the 7th Annual Real Estate Women's Forum to be held on Friday, February 23rd at The New Yorker Hotel.

Over Terri's more than 20 year career, she has long advocated for enhancing the roles of women in the real estate industry, the legal industry, and in business generally. Her presentation at the 7th Annual Real Estate Women's Forum is a perfect channel to further spread that message.

Prior to the Forum, Terri offered her insights on what she hopes for the future of the real estate industry: "Through the years, I have watched female talent leave the real estate industry, while their male counterparts stay and thrive. I think our industry has suffered from the loss of that talent and the inability to adapt to a changing world. We should all strive to promote retention of that talent in every sense of the word within our companies. That is something I try to do on a daily basis at D&S – create an environment where the sole standard for success is talent and grit – end of story."

The forum has a full agenda focused on all aspects of women in commercial real estate and there will be an outstanding group of speakers. Terri will be speaking on the panel entitled "Life In the Boardroom: Viewpoints from Female Power Players" at 1:45PM.
